Madelon Curtis has taught all forms of dance for the past 30 years. A SAG/AFTRA/AEA professional dancer, actress, choreographer and teacher, she brings with her from NYC and LA, a broad range of experience, having worked at the high school, college and professional levels with dancers of all ages and experience. Her ballet training is Balanchine-based, with Melissa Hayden, Allegra Kent, Jacques D'Amboise, Pat Wilde, Wilhelm Burmann and other notable New York City Ballet members in NYC and Saratoga Springs. She also trained extensively at The Joffrey Ballet School, American Ballet Theatre School, David Howard, Boston Ballet and with Rosella Hightower in Cannes, France. She has performed with numerous regional ballet companies in New England, NY and NJ.

She is also a fully certified Pilates instructor and competitive ballroom dancer.
